VISITING IN CALIFORNIA

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Bradley, Jr. of Church Street, Mattapoisett left Tuesday morning of this week for Santa Ana, California where they will visit for several weeks with their son, Sgt. Leman S. Bradley, and Mrs. Bradley. On their return they will visit friends in Alabama.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

I would like to comment on the spraying of poison from the air to kill mosquitoes. This summer -- up to the time when the town sprayed -- there were many birds around my place, but immediately after the spraying took place -- I heard and saw none at all for five or six days, then a few came around at times, but it has been different ever since - no more are the little song sparrows or goldfinches or other unidentified birds heard. I understand that in some towns such spraying is not allowed. We need the birds. I with that Mattapoisett could wake up to the fact that it's an evil thing.

Sincerely,
Marion Parker.

STAYING AT POINT CONNETT

PILOTING COURSES

Free piloting courses--designed to be of equal value to all boatsmen, from the fisherman who rents an outboard for a day to the yachtsman who plies the waters in a powerful cruiser or a graceful sailing craft--will start September 18 under the direction of the Mattapoisett Power Squadron.

Registration will be at 7:30 P.M. September 11 at Old Rochester Regional High School, Route 6, Mattapoisett.

Subjects covered in the classes include safety afloat, seamanship, small boat handling, equipment and Government regulations, rules of the road, aids to navigation, the mariner's compass, charts and piloting.

Classes will be held every Wednesday night at the high school starting September 18 from 7:30 to 10 P.M. Termination date will be sometime in December.

The course is open to both men and women over 18. Being a boat owner is not a prerequisite to registering and there is no charge for class material.

This year, squadron personnel will conduct a newly written course by a new and improved method.

Thomas F. Cleverly, A.P., of Middleboro is squadron commander; Gerald Smith, J.N., of Middleboro, educational officer; and Andrew J. Alden, A.P., Mattapoisett, class chairman.

Class lecturers and assistants include Mr. Cleverly, Dr. Charles R. Phillips, A.P., of Fairhaven; George Olifierko, A.P., of Marion and Warren. H. Bell, A.P., Louis E. Johnson, A.P., Joseph M. Pimentel, S., Walter J. Sawye N., and Mr. Alden, all of Mattapoisett.

The objects of the United States Power Squadrons are to establish a high standard of skill in the handling and navigation of small boats, to encourage the science of navigation, to cooperate with the agencies of the U. S. Government charged with the enforcement of the laws and regulations relating to navigation and to stimulate interest in activities which will tend to the upbuilding of the American Navy, Coast Guard and Merchant Marine.

A free piloting course is a tradition with the United States Power Squadrons since the organi zation was first initiated in 1914. Since then, it is estimated conservatively that more than 600,000 persons have taken the course as pre-

SKILL, HEAT AND PRESSURE

Recently I had the privilege of taking one of the most interesting walks in years. As guest of David Haley, chief engineer, I was shown the New Bedford plant of Revere Copper and Brass. Armies of workmen, in a multitude of industries, can only start to produce their own products when they receive metal fabricated to specification by Revere. U. S. Navy ships depend upon plate metal from this plant for their evaporators which convert salt water to fresh.

It emerges in red hot slab form and is cooled. As the cooling took place a skin of oxidized metal formed on the whole surface of this slab. This is milled off leaving the slab pure and ready for rolling.

An enormous electric furnace brings the slab up to the proper temperature. Then a fork-lift of heroic size deposits the glowing slab on the feed rollers of a spectacular machine. Picture a clothes wringer large enough to wring out a chunk of metal six inches thick, powered by a Destroyer Escort engine of 1,500 horse-power. This is the center of the machine and the power turns the 2 huge metal rolls. On eac side, set in a long table, are feed rollers whic are powered by 500 horsepower. The operator stands at a console bathed in the heat of this glowing slab which he manipulates down the feed rolls, through the rolls of the rolling mill, then reverses the feed rolls on the op-posite side to run the chunk back through the plate mill. Each pass through the plate mill reduces the thickness of the metal by a quar-ter inch and increases the length. All of the increase in the length occurs in the direction that the plate is run through the mill. The width remains constant. This is a fascinating giant to watch with those two thousand horses squeezing that glowing metal down in a steady methodical series of passes. When the plate reaches the proper thickness, it is run to the far end of the bed where a series of adjustable finishing rollers straighten out the plate until it is perfectly flat. The finished product in this condition is plate which is still a substantial thickness of approximately 1 1/2 to 2 inches. If the end product is to be thinner sheets many more machines must work the metal. This thinner strip sheet requires enormous pressure for it is rolled cold after the plate roller has finished it into the length and width desired. First the plate must be run through a stainless steel machine which "pickles" the surface. As it moves through this machine, an acid spray removes the oxidation which has formed on the surface as it cooled in the air. The strip mill is a smaller version of the plate mill with a difference in the rollers. In order to exert the enormous pressure required to flatten the cold metal there are two banks of rollers on each side of the metal. A large roller, top and bottom, exert pressure on two smaller rollers which compress the metal between them.

These are only a couple of the operations at Revere and the town is full of men who can describe them better. This plant is something to stir your imagination. You can visualize these shining slabs and ribbons of metal reaching to all parts of the county and the world to be stamped, cut and formed into thousands of products that we all use. You visualize the printing mills printing miles of cloth from the roll that you just saw formed. You "see" the missile, the printing presses, jewelry, Navy ships, a million keys, locks, pipe, etc. etc.
